

HOMELAND SECURITY BASS TOURNAMENT

April 24, 2010

Huntsville, Alabama's Ditto Landing Marina

They serve, defend and protect us. The Boat House, Huntsville and Triton Boats say 'thank you' with a bass tournament for homeland security personnel, first responders, and military personnel on Saturday, April 24, 2010 at Huntsville, Alabama's Ditto Landing Marina. Life on the Water Magazine is a media partner for the event.

“No entry fee for this tournament. The Boathouse nor Triton Boats nor any of our sponsors will benefit monetarily from the Homeland Security Bass Tournament. We love to fish, this river is so relaxing...so this is how we wanted to personally thank the men and women that have put their lives on the line for us,” says Ed Whitman with The Boat House Huntsville.

Police officers, firefighters, first responders, active military personnel, military reservists, members of the National Guard and other Homeland Security agency personnel are invited to fish the tournament at no charge.

With the full support of Dr. Joe Davis and the Alabama Department of Homeland Security in Montgomery, Alabama (information@dhs.alabama.gov), men and women from across the state and region will can experience a day of relaxation, great fishing and the thanks they deserve from the community.

Sponsorships, donations of goods/services and volunteers, both individual or groups, are being accepted now. Monetary prizes will be awarded for placement in the tournament as well as for “Big Fish,” and the donations of goods and services will be awarded to the participants in the form of door prizes.
